

Mogambo umbrella by Paola Lenti, $25,500 as shown
The parasol features polyolefin and waterproof polyester cord handwoven onto the varnished aluminum frame. Pair with the Clique side table and pouf (shown) or use freestanding. ddcny.com

Knit coffee table by Patrick Norguet for Ethimo, $306
Teak is prized for its durability and natural water resistance—hence its frequent application in boat building. Here, French designer Patrick Norguet utilizes the material in a restrained table. ethimo.com

Flo fireplace by Brown Jordan Fires, $4,495 Fueled by bio-ethanol, the clean-burning design doesn't need to be attached to a utility hookup. The fiber-cement piece is five feet long and has a 15,000 BTU output. brownjordanfires.com

Painted lines by Robert Allen, $138 per yard While the fabric has a delicate, hand-painted look, it's made from hardy Sunbrella acrylic—a high-performance material with a soft feel. robertallendesign.com

Red picnic cooler by Crate & Barrel, $70 With a nod to the past, the powder-coated steel cooler offers a retro-inspired way to tote picnic sundries. crateandbarrel.com

Fat sofa by Patricia Urquiola for B&B Italia, $10,173 Sofa maven Urquiola debuted the original Fat sofa in 2007; now the popular design is adapted for outdoor use with a cord-wrapped steel back and water-repellent fabrics. bebitalia.com
